

City Hall

This was the City's first low water and habitat friendly demonstration garden. It includes a mixture of species common to the nursery trade along with native plants. It includes many native shrubs with berries, providing food for local birds and other wildlife. This highly visible garden also includes several interpretive signs about the plants.